GOD IS IS LOVE And NOTHING ELSE

PRAISE THE LORD.

(IEEENWOOD, M198, Jan. 19, 1887. DEAR INTERIOR: - Eighteen miles due west, or nearly, from Carrollton, lies this village, on the the left bank of the Yellow Yazoo, and the terminus of a lately constructed branch of the Illinols Central This is about as much of the geography of the place as your readers will care to know

We had ordered hacks from this place to come up the evening the meeting at Carrollton broke, but only one came, and the delay in weiting for another, that jut in an appearance a little before noon on the 11th. and procuring a substitute in C. for the third, that didn't come at all, threw us onto 1 P. M. before we made our start. The usual triat of faith and patience, accompanied all this darangement of our plans for a timely departure and the usual failures and government. The Star of the West was afvictorles in fighting off impatience and illtemper, that one can ordinarially find in a to angelle perfection. At last we said good bye to our kind entertainer, whose unimpaired cheerfulness and awaetness of temper had been the standing admiration of our whole party for two weaks. I Indar is most trying combination of circumstances-the copper nails and fragments of glass from cruel cold, the paralysis of half-frozen colored help, the crowded condition of her honse and the constant influx of vicitors, more or lass upsetting household arrange. ments, her be sutiful equationity was undia turbed from first to last. The troups will long remember their pleasant sojourn at Sleter Sanders' and the gentle manner of thair kind and hospitable hostass.

For nine miles the road weetward was repetition of that from Winons to Carrollton, a wali-packed, tortuous, sendy road bed, through pine and oak forest commingied. Very few hills to mount, for the rea- robust and even stalwart, while the ladies son that once a wagon track is made deep are blooming and full of health and beanenough to furnish e drain for the water, the heavy rains will soon cut it down into a deep gorga, with perpendicular eand banks on either side. One looks for any. ry, I naver saw e healthier lot of folks in thing like rocks in vain. They are tha my life. It is no new thing to see in the product of other latitudes. Unfathomable loam is the characteristic in this.

The second half of our journey was the ewamp" Suddenly the road descends to a lower level by a steep incline, called the "valtay hill," and from that on to Greenwood we had a monotonous flat, with cotton plantations alternating with thick forests of aweet gum and cypress. Nothing and symmetrical fest and graceful limbs George said, after a long, delicious silence, more dreary and uninviting than this swamp landscape can be imagined this side of the alkaline plains of the far West. Large tracts are "water logged" with standing pools, suggestive of malaris, without end. In these desolate expanses of shallow daukness, the gums and cypresses are swol ien and sods bottle-shoped at the root, as if they had been seized with gout from stend. no more confound cavalier and l'aritan ing long in the unwholesome damps. Here than you could Judah and Ephraim in the and there a log cubin, in clearings devoted olden time. And it is curious and instructo cot'or, perched upon piles to keep clear live to notice how the natural antagonism of imm latin, emphasized the prevailing of the rival tribes, in Britain, transferred jumpressions of swampiness, that everpowers one the unament he strikes the lower level. We didn't see half a dezen people the nine miles Tue accupants of the cabins seem. ed away trout home, leaving here and there a dog or 'wo in charge Starcaly a sign of life in the gloomy forest, save once in a while a sal looking bird, ilitting stealthile and guiltily through the branches of the amalter saplings. The day was bright enough overhead and we had cheerful company, but the surroundings would have de present Momus himself. At times the mul hales were fearful holes of stickingss. through which our mules flounderedweary and panting. Happily a few days of annehine and rain had rendered the worst places comewhat tolerable, but what they are in bad weather one stands aghast to p'ed Vergluis at an earlier date.

The son had just sunk in ruddy glory ahead of us when we drove into the village. Outhotel stands on the bank of the Yezoo coming down the river, with a cargo of cot opolize the cotton trade of the Yazoo and while still remaining known by the names Tallabatchie, is sharp, not to say vicious. The rail is getting to be the popular method of transit, both on account of speedler delivery and cleaner handling.

The Yazoo is a deep, sluggleh stream, yellow and tortuous. The junction of the Yallabusha and Tallahatchie, to form it, le making an leland and just opposite the town, there is a body of fertile cotton land of 2,700 acres in extent.

femous Fort l'emberton was located and the earth-works and bactions are still easily traceable. In the Tailahatchis just below the double object of blocking the channel and preventing her capture by the Federwar steamer at which was fired the first conflict which cost in all so dear. She was attempting to throw in reinforcements and supplies to Fort Sumpter when the boom of the first shotted gun, firing across her bowe, from Sullivan's Island, halted her. The legend is that old ex-Governor Rutledge touched off the gun and then opened the armed resistence to the United States terward captured at Galveston by Van Dorn and did service for the rebels until party of ten, none of whom could lay claim she blocked the channel of the Tallahatchie to keep the Yankee gun boats from taking Vick-burg in the rear. Our postmaster here was one of the party to whom was entrusted the sinking of the vessel and he promised me some relica in the shape of the cabin windows. All of which is quite in my line of curiosity collecting.

Fort Pemberton, that grimly guarded both rivers - stretching quite across the narrow neck that separates them - was the only Confederate fort over which the victorious "stars and stripes" never floated. A sister steamer to the Star of the West was nunk near the month of the Yallabusha. How ito I like the awampers? First-rate.

They are hearty, intelligent and, largely, well educated. The first amazement I experienced was to see the men so universally ty. I had expected to see a measure of puniness and the frequent tallow complection that told of fever and ague. Oa the contra-South handsome men and beantiful wowhere. But you can itself to these western shares. Nor could altered circumstances, nor overwhelming influx of Gentue emigration from every quarter erase the ineralicable jealousy that could we only trace it, begon far, far back in the land of "Abraham, lease and Jacob." My own theory is that Virginia and Caro olina, which States alone give germanent character, that can not be mistaken, to the minites. Our services are held in the court-house, as the largest and most comfortable house only three miles above and in a prodigions of assembly in the place. We have excelbend of the Yezoo and Tailahatchie almost lent congregatione, day and night, and our gospel is atriking deep root already, here, as elsewhere. Ingersollism is more rampant South than even North, but "LOVE Three miles below the viliage the two and Nothing E se" slays it, right and left, rivers, at the neck of the bend, are only where the heart is not rotten. Praise the about 350 yards apart, one going west and LORD! What a gospel it is! I love it the other east. In this narrow neck the more dearly every hour. I know it is true. I believe it will sweep the world one day. O, for more tongues to tell it!

I drove down to Fort Pemberion yester one of the bastions that commanded a long day, with a splendid young lawyer, whose reach of that river, the ateamer "Star of the library bristies with all of Ingersoll'e West" was sunk by the Confederates, with books, in addition to Voltaire, Tom Paine, Volney, Roneseau and all the rest. I could see how unsatisfied he was with the ale. I'art of the wreck is still visible at the whole lot, and how eagerly, hungrily, he end of 22 years. As she bore her weight upon the hed it gave way, and all three went down together When Dingler extricated himself with the baby he found that it was dead. There were no marks on the child, and the explanation of its death is that when the hed broke the father involuntarily clasped bla arms so tightly around the haby that the breath was equeezed out of its little body.

-A rather unique trial was held before the county superintendent here, Thursday. William Black, a teacher, was arraigned on the charge of exercising, too freely, not "executive clemency," but excessive severity in school, flogging pretty severely some grown daughters of Mr. Esom Faris, who chose to disobey his rules and call him names. The unfortunate pedagogue suffered a revocation of his certificate on the ground of inability to govern a school, and NAL of the 18th I have just read the re- the case was dismissed. It leaked out in markable statement that "the sheriff of the testimony that the girls called Mr. Wayne made big money out of Prewitt's Black "Jim Leath," which was sufficient hanging." W. P. WALTON.

WE are indebted to Mrs. Mary A. Smith of Virginia, for a copy of the book written by Thomas Judson Cluverius, who recently suffered the deserved death penalty for the horrible murder of his cousin, Miss Lillian Madison. The production is disappointing both to the few who believe him innocent as well as to those convinced of his The Nebraska Legislature has decided to guilt. His denial of the crime lacks keep him at home and send A. S. Paddock straightforwardness and is a rather poor effort at what the inwyers term special pleading. The book adds further proof of the wonderful nerve and self-possession of the man, which had characterized him thro' all the trying scenes he he had to pass. Employed in a worthy direction, such qualities would have won him honor and distinction in any field of action. For ourseives we are more convinced after reading the book, that Cluyerius was guilty than ever before, and can with even greater emphasis commend the firmness of Gov. Lee in refneing to set saide the findings of the judges and jury. No Kentucky governor in our recollection would have done a plain duty so firmly and so well.

A GREAT of jection to the Interetate Commerce Bill is that it fastens another horde of office-holders on the country. Besides ave commissioners at $7,500 each and expenses and a $3,500 secretary, the commission has the power to employ and fix the compensation of such other employes as it may find necessary to the proper performance of its duties. Law-makers are everready to vote for the creation of new offices and to increase their own salaries, and that accounts for the very large majority by which the bill was passed. The railroad commission with probably he as much service to the country at large as our own commission is to the State and everybody knows how infinitesimally small that is,

WE have no desire to do Sheriff Ramsey, of Wayne, the elightest injury and therefore very cheerfully give space to his letter which appears in this issue denying that he made anything out of the Prewitt hanging save the legal fee. The Signal did not say in so many words that the sheriff sold the tickets to the hanging, but said they were at a premium at $5 each and as the sheriff was the only person who could issue tickets the natural inference was as we gave it. Bro. Thompson should be a little more particular in his use of words or he will is jure his reputation both as au editor and a teacher.

A TRIUMVIRATE of editors, composed of have formed a mutual admiration society for the evident purpose of "tickling you if National Bank there. you'll tickle me." This is what Dana said about Watterson the other day: "He says just what he thinks and never what he the creek and succeeded in drowning him docen't think. We may not always agree with his opinion, but we never cease to love the warm-hearted, big-brained fellow who utters it. There are too few such men in the world." To all of which we subscribe, but look out all the same for Watterson's opinion of Dana.

GEN. BUCKNER, who we were told was to stand still and let the gnbernatorial nomination run him down, has found that the days when the office sought the man are gone with the unrecallable past, and decided to shuffle around a little himself, consequently he has established his headquarters in Lonieville and will learn the arts of the politicien from the venal set who run the politice of that city.

Better Stick to the Good Old Way. Mr. Jerry Young, of Oregon City, who is a reader of a Western paper that makes a specially of matrimonial advertisements, determined to get married. The following is the story of Mr. Young's courtship:

"Mr. Young advertised for a wife and smong the answers was one from Annie Smith, dated New York. Annie sald she was a country girl from Connecticut; that she was a lone orphan thirty six years old, and was tired of living alone. She inclosed a beautiful photograph which she said fair ly represented her ravishing beauty. The correspondence grew interesting 'My Own,' 'My Sweet,' 'My Darling,' 'Little Sweet heart, and other tender expressions were scattered through the letters with lavieh hand. Finally Jerry sout Annie $60 with which to pay her way to Oregon City, of ropes. Then the effect was bettered by where the marriage would occur. In a few days Jerry received a letter stating that Anaie had started but had been taken sick at Binghampton, New York. Two days later Appie wrote a brief letter which clcs ed by begging Jerry to 'come quick, dear husband.' On this letter was an indorse ment that Appie had given up the ghost. But Jerry did not 'come quick.' He changed his, advertisement, attached a new address and quietly fished for a new Annie. The first answer was in the handwriting of the deceased Annie and the wording was exactly like Annie's lirst letter. The correspondence was then delivered to the United States postal authorities. The in vestigation unearthed a regular awindling concern, conducted by a negro named Alex ander Searles, who has a corps of sable weistante. Jerry's 'Annie' was found to he as black as the ace of spades. The swindiere were all captured and have been reut to jail."

This story has two morals. One is that it is always better to negotiate for a wife in person, and the other is that the negro however thriftiese he may be under the Souls ern suns, when translated north sometimes becomes as shifty a yankee as any of them

The Names of Women.

Give your daughter but one name in saptism. She will be perfectly content with it. Her lover never requires, never nece more than one of her names, if she has half a dezen. In the height of his lendernees he never exclaime, "Amelia Jane, some to my arme!" He simply extends his arms and cries, "Amelia!" When the girl marries let her always keep her surname, then whenever we see a woman's name we shall know whether she is "married" or single and if she is married we shall know what her family name is. If she has earned a reputation as a writer or a doctor or a L.L.D. as Mary Brown, she will carry that with her as Mary Brown Johnson; and in an infinite all cases there will be spared amount of talk and inquiry as to who she was before she was married. The system is essential to the "cause" of women. It may be said that it lacks perfection in two respects; we could not tell from the three names whether the bearer of them might not be a widow and it makes no provision for a second marriage. These are delicate questions. In regard to the first, it le no body's business to know whether the wo man is or is not a widow, unless she choses to make that act prominent, and then she has ways enough to emphasize it. And in the second place, it does not at all matter what becomes of the name of the first hus band. It is the woman's identity that is preserved. And she can not be required to eet up mile stones all along her life .-[New Orleans States.

- G. L. Wilson in The Current. EFFECTS ON THE STAGE.

Ploating lus-A Raft Scene-Marine Effects-Mounlight Hipples-Cataracts. The old and much abused effect of theating co shown in "Uncle Tom's Caldin," where Eliza crosses the Ohio and avoids her pursuers, was originally done with set waters and old soap boxes that were mounted on rollers and pulled from side to side by means covering these boxes with a sea-cloth which is a piece of canvas painted in imitation of At last a platform hung on heavy bolts with two small rockers was substituted and is still in use. The raft scene in "The World' was produced by having a man nt each one of the entrances who kept shaking the sea cloth while the scene was on. This was improved by having a number of boys kneel under the cloth and give it motion by raising and lowering their shoulders. Then the barrel roller came into use. This consists of a long cylindrical frame covered with irregular shaped pieces of wood painted to represent a sea. Several of these rollers used at one time are effective. They are controlled by a man who sets them in motion by turning a crank. This idea is used in the seene of the old slules house in "Alone in London. The best marine or water effect Is secured by painting a sea and building a number of waves eliptical in form and fastening them together by mean of elastic bands. waves when set in motion from either side of the stage by means of a pulley are very delusive. The beach effect where the tide is seen to be in motlon-that is, where the water comes up to the shore and then recedes only to return again in another wave -is done by covering the stage first with a sand cloth. The cloth is painted not only to look like sand but is sanded as well. Over this is spread the sea cloth attached to heavy sand bags that hang underneath the stage by means of ropes that run through the floor. When the cord holding the sea cloth is released the heavy sand bags draw it away from the set rocks and bank, and as the under part of the sea cloth is also well sanded the swash of the water is very nicely lmitated. When the cloth has been drawn as far as necessary the operator has but to pull it i back again and then go over the same performance until the scene is done. This effect is expensive. For moonlight ripples and shadows slashes are cut in the painted waters behind which colored silken cloths are hung. These cloths are sometimes spangled. The silken sheen showing through these slashes produces a good effect. Waterfalls are produced by means of an endless roller of canvas or by directing a stream of real water over a trestle filled in with real stones and ferns and mashed in on either side by set waters. The roller idea is seldom seen nowadays. The difference between these two systems can be appreciated by those who can remember the original production of "The Cataract of the Crook."-Philadelphia Item.

The Charm of Wearing tiems. One of the charms of wearing a gem is a consciousness of its indestructibility, its permanency, and, if one may say so, of its personality-the mystery of nature's methods in its slow crystallization in dark telluric depths, of the glance of imprisoned powers shut up within its walls, a remembrance of and more, to many minds, has as much force as the inherent beauty of the thing Itself. Who knows what spirit, what one the genii, what cabalistically command sprite is shut up in the flery depths of the ruby, with its purple blue corners, of the pigeon blood tinge, in the heavenly color and brilliancy of the sapphire, in the sea green water depths of emerald or beryl?

There is always a fascination in its sparkle, both when we wear it and see another wear it, or when we lift it from its dark hlding place in the easket where we keep it, as it looks up at us with its lidless, deathless glance of beauty. But a bit of glass, however pret tily colored-what spirit is there in that made by a man, according to a formulawhat spell can the most vivid langination conjure up in its ray-what mystery lurks in a thing that any clown can put together Nothing of the poetical or romantic attacheto the wearing of the colored glass, the urtlficial cem-mere love of show and glitter and osten 'ation enter into that.—Harper's Bazar.

HUNGRY CUSTOMERS.

AN ANNOYANCE TO WHICH SOME TRADESMEN ARE SUBJECTED.

Continual Pilfering from the Grocers' Exposed Packages of Fruits, Candies and Nuts-Hard to Draw the Line. One Man's Plan.

"One of the petty bulsances we have to suffer in our line of business," said a Wabash avenue grocer, "is the continual pilferings from our counters from exposed packages of fruits, enndies, nuts, etc., which our busi-ness compel us to display to make them attractive. Now see that old man with his daughter coming in at the door. He is a regular customer and comes in almost every evening. See! No sooner does he get through the door than out goes his hand for a snmll bunch of grapes. There is nothing surreptitions in the act on his part, as you will notice. He evidently thinks he does nothing wrong and unconsciously helps himself to a small handful of some entleing morsel which his painte takes a faucy to almost every evening, as you see he has just done. 'Like father like son' will apply to the daughter also, for there goes the young lady, who is wniting for her father to make his evening jurchases, making a beolino for the candy counter, a small bit from one tray and a dip lute another, until the entire circuit of the store is made. It is true that what they have eaten is of small value, but during n whole,day, with the hundreds of customers we have going in and out, the aggregate amount of our losses in this very same way ls much larger than you would suppose."

"I stand in this part of the store," said me of the salestnen, "the entire day und have the very best opportunity for observing people who 'lunch,' as we term it. I'll give you an instance of how severely we suffer at imes from these seemingly unconscious assimilations, politely speaking. One day last week, after being more than usually annoyed at the liberty taken in this by way an elderly woman wit's every appearance of refinement and respectability. I resolved to test the mattor of these losses to my employer by placing a five pound box of Tokny grapes where every one coming in and going out must pass them. This I did in the morning as soon as the store was opened, and by il o'cleck in the afternoon, I give you my word of honor, there was not a slugle grape in that box!

HAND TO DRAW THE LINE. "I went to our manager and told him of my experience, and he gave strict lustruetions to call the attention of any one who was seen taking such liberties to the fact that the goods were exposed for sale, and were not samples for gratuitous distribution, as they seemed to think. We were also given to understand that if we did this respectfully our conduct would meet with the support and encouragement of the proprietor. Still, with those rules we must draw the line somewhere, and it is hard to tell just where to do so; we have customers whose trade is very profitable, and were we to speak to them of such an action as a liberty taken, and even in the most respectful manner reprove them they would be offended beyond our ability to explain the reason of our doing so and we should certainly lose their trade and their good will for-

At another store, where the counters are ornamented in profusion with delicacles in and out of season, pretty much the same domplaint was made although no instructions had been given salesmen to lessen the annoyance. This proprietor antibel dryly ln conversing with a reporter on the topic and finally said: "One of my experiences with the 'lunch' business, as we call it, was at our cracker and cheese counter. For a long time we had our dairy department in an out of the way place in the store, and near by were the cracker boxes and barrels. On sev eral occasons during the middle of the day 1 had frequently stood almost directly over this spot and could easily see the movements of overy one in the store Now it might sound absurd for me to say that a business the vague old idea of their potency-all this man and neighbor would come into my place and go directly to that cheese counter and cracker barrel and help himself to a midday lunch, but it is a fact nevertheless.

PUT A STOP TO IT. "And not only did one man do lt, but during the course of a week when I was in terested in the cheekiness of the liberty taken with my goods, beyond my pecuniary oss therefrom, I watched that particular locality more closely than usual. Believe me I saw no less than five men come to that counter and help themselves every day until I put a stop to it by moving these articles to other places, where by a different arrangemeat this sponging could not be continued without being dewnright theft. Well it would have been worth a week's salary to you to have watched that counter with me the following day. They came in singly and by pairs shortly after 12 o'clock and on reaching their accustomed launts a look of blank astoms ment was depleted on their countenances at the metamorphosis of that particular spot I was almost afraid it would be now sary to take their auto morem stat and t before they could leave my

"Do you have any other similar stancy nuces in your business, was usked. "Well ves, there is one other, but it is far more serions, and I hardly should speak of it. Our system of each sales requires the pur chaser to pay for his articles at a cashier's desk on going out. We lave, in some cases, caught people trying to leave the store without settling, but it does not occur very frequently, as our salesmen are made responsi-tie for their checks and it is their duty to see their checks are presented to the cashier for payment, but of course during the busy hours of the day this is impossible. Business Is very good with us just now and will be until after the holidays."-Chicago Tribune.

The question was, whom the management should most delight to honor. It took Manager Augustus Univis only a second to decide that his bread was buttered on the newspaper side. So, when the princes demanded the royal box as their right it was sorrowfully announced that the box was engaged. So a newspaper man sat in the reyal box directly above the heads of the princes, who were addiged to content themselves with a little box on a level with the stage. COMMERCIAL HOTEL! BY J. W. ADAMS,

McKINNEY, - - KY I have lately purchased this botel and have made many improvements in it.

I intend to keep everything in first-class style, and make only moderate charges.

As I have been on the road for several years I know the wants of traveling men, and I will make it to thair interest to stop with mo. 186-1 yr.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN!

This is to certify that Mr. Jacob Ottenhelmer no longer connected with the Lincoln Land o., that he is not anthorized to contract for the ompany, or receive money for the same, or to incur any obligation in tho name or the Company, r in any way to act or the same. O. L. RICHARD,

President Lincoln Land Co New York, Dec. 11, 1886.

STRAY STEER!

There came to my farm near livatonville a roan aleer with one horn drooped, about the 15th of October, last. The owner can get him by calling and proving property and paying for feeding, &c.

[J. B., McKinney, Ky.

Following is the appraisement before the Mag Personally appeared before me, a Justice of the Peace, J. F. liover and B. li. Gover and made oath that the ateer me timed above, has been examined by them and they fin its value at $25.

THIS COOD OLD STAND-BY accompilates for everybody exactly what is claimed for it. One of the reasons for the great popularity of the Musiang Liniment is found in its universal applicability. Everybody needs such a medicine The Lumberman needs It in case of aecident. The Housewife needs it for general family use The Canaler needs it for his teams and his men The Mechanic aceds it always on his work

The Miner needs it in case of emergency. The Ploneer needalt-can't get along without it The Farmer needs it in his house, his stable and his stock yard.

The Steambant man ar the Rantman needs it in liberal supply affoat and ashore. The Horse-funcier needs it-it is the lest friend and safest reliance.

The Stock-grower needs it-lt will save blm thousands of dollars and a world of trouble. The Italiroad manneeds it and will need it as long as his life is a round of accidents and dangers. The Hackwordsman peeds it. There is noth The Merchant aceds thabout his store among his employees. Accidents will happen, and when these come the Mustang Liniment is wanted at one

Keep a Bottle in the Partory. Italmmediate use is case of accident saves pain and loss of wages. Keep a Bottle Always in the Stuble for une when wanted.
